Marking. One mark per numbered question; no negative marking. Main paper: 50 marks in 70 minutes. Listening: 12 marks, taken separately. Overall: 62. Percentage = score / 62 x 100. An asterisk identifies an item with a fair-marking note.

Print corrections. Grammar 4 removes the stray comma before than. Vocabulary 15 now reads There are ... fish, so countless fits grammatically. All answer letters and options are unchanged. Fair marking: Grammar 5 has a defensible alternative; see its detailed note.

Printing. Use A4 at 100% / actual size. For double-sided student copies, select long-edge binding: article page 8 and questions page 9 then face each other. Keep this key separate from student copies. Main-paper timing excludes Listening.

Grammar

MULTIPLE CHOICE / QUESTIONS 1-10 / STUDENT PAGE 1

01 A the

The + adjective can refer to a group of people: the blind means people who are blind. No singular article is needed before this group expression.

02 B to be taken

Want takes a to-infinitive. Emma receives the serious consideration, so use the passive infinitive: to be taken.

03 C hadn't discussed

This is a third conditional: if + past perfect imagines a different past, followed by might have + past participle for its possible result.

04 B they'd rather have saved

Would rather have + past participle expresses a preference about a completed past action. The second have is understood before spent. The printed stem removes the stray comma before than.

05 A almost none

Almost none gives the intended negative emphasis: very few arrived. Fair marking: C (a few) is also grammatical and consistent with three arrivals; accept C in classroom marking.

06 B whom we were talking about

Whom refers to the student as the object of about. A wrongly repeats the object with her; C leaves about without an object.

07 C couldn't have hoped

Couldn't have hoped for a better experience evaluates a completed experience very positively. The perfect infinitive refers back to the tour.

08 B whatever

Whatever + noun means regardless of which or what kind: whatever the weather. However normally modifies an adjective or adverb, and wherever refers to place.

09 C You'd better not

Had better not + infinitive gives a strong warning. The speaker explicitly warns his brother not to tell their mother; lack of necessity would express a different meaning.

10 B to pick up

Remember to do means remember a required action before doing it. Remember doing refers to a memory of an action already completed.

Grammar

11 C being heard

A preposition such as without takes an -ing form. Because the group would receive the hearing, use the passive gerund: being heard.

12 B I'll ever get used to living

Get used to + -ing means become accustomed to something. The speaker wonders whether that adjustment will ever happen in the future.

13 C wouldn't have believed

The third conditional imagines an unreal past result: wouldn't have believed. The past perfect in the if-clause supplies the unreal past condition.

14 A shouldn't have waited

Shouldn't have + past participle criticises a past action. Beth did wait, but her father says waiting was a mistake because the bike was dangerous.

15 A will leave

Will + infinitive can describe a persistent habit, often with irritation. Every day and drives me crazy establish an annoying present pattern.

16 C could

Could describes general ability in the past. Even as a child establishes that past period; the present and future alternatives do not fit.

17 B must have left

Must have + past participle expresses a confident deduction about the past. The book is missing now, so his mother concludes he left it at school.

18 B Never before

Initial never before triggers auxiliary-subject inversion: has a news story attracted. The other expressions would require different surrounding structures.

19 C knowing

Admit takes an -ing complement: admitted knowing. Neither the bare infinitive nor a to-infinitive fits this pattern.

20 A bringing

Bringing their own food is an active participle clause describing visitors who bring food. Brought would be passive; not bringing reverses the required meaning.

Vocabulary

01 C make generalizations

Make generalizations means form broad claims about a subject or group. Doing research is presented as a better basis for conclusions.

02 C voice recognition

Voice recognition allows spoken input to be interpreted by a computer. It fits controlling the computer when typing is not possible.

03 B sense of community

A sense of community is a feeling of belonging and connection. Everyone knowing one another supplies the supporting context.

04 C equal rights

Equal rights means the same entitlements and fair treatment for both groups. The sentence compares men and women in the workplace.

05 C adversaries

Adversaries are opponents. Their history of arguing about the topic supports that relationship; the other nouns do not describe people in this way.

06 C wear off

Wear off means gradually lose an effect. The pain returning shows that the medication is becoming less effective.

07 B shelf life

Shelf life is the period during which a product remains suitable for use. The question tests this expression, rather than a guarantee about every milk product.

08 A milestone in life

A milestone in life is an important event or stage. Buying a first home is presented as such an achievement.

09 B cheer on

Cheer someone on means encourage them by shouting support. The friends are participating in a race.

Vocabulary

MULTIPLE CHOICE / QUESTIONS 10-18 / STUDENT PAGE 4

10 B brush up on

Brush up on means refresh knowledge or a skill not used recently. The speaker needs to review the game's rules.

11 C on the point of

On the point of + -ing means just about to do something. The player was very close to winning when she fell.

12 C in the limelight

In the limelight means receiving public attention. Winning the competition supplies the intended reason for that attention.

13 B made the headlines

Make the headlines means become a prominent news story. The unusually large charity total makes the achievement newsworthy.

14 A probably

Probably expresses likelihood and fits the speaker's tentative future intention. Worryingly adds concern; obviously suggests something is already clear.

15 C countless

Countless means too many to count and directly modifies the plural noun fish. The printed stem uses There are ... fish, correcting the ungrammatical online noun phrase.

16 B face the music

Face the music means accept criticism or consequences for one's actions. The other expressions do not fit both the structure and the situation.

17 B result in

Result in introduces an outcome or consequence. Failed crops would cause a reduction in the corn available.

18 A ration

A ration is a fixed supply of food or essentials, especially for a particular period or emergency. A takeaway or banquet does not fit the expedition context.

Reading 1

SHORT TEXTS / QUESTIONS 1-6 / STUDENT PAGES 5-7

Each explanation refers to the matching numbered short text. Where the source wording permits a different interpretation, the note identifies it.

01 B To ask Priya if she is available to offer some advice

Text 1, email. Emily's main aim is to discuss her university options and obtain Priya's perspective. The invitation and cherry pie support that request; they are not the central purpose, and Emily bought rather than made the pie.

02 C It has been out of use lately.

Text 2, advert. The scooter has been in a garage for a year, establishing recent lack of use. The advert does not list several required repairs. Test drives are available only in the evenings, so B overstates availability.

03 A To provide ideas to readers for new outfits

Text 3, blog. The writer offers outfit ideas, including combinations made from items readers already own. That rules out a main purpose of encouraging new purchases or identifying shops with bargains.

04 B It might be confusing to some viewers.

Text 4, review. The series has a complicated plot and may be difficult to follow without revisiting Series 1. The ending is specifically described as less mysterious this time, so C reverses the review's point.

05 C Services can be used if people have the right access.

Text 5, library notice. Members can still request books online. New users must register before the building closes because registration is unavailable online. Services therefore depend on having the appropriate membership, rather than all stopping on Monday.

06 C To give an instruction

Text 6, message. Elizabeth tells Oscar to hurry home and be present when Dad arrives. The reference to missing the fun explains the urgency; it does not report a physical danger or mainly offer advice.

Reading 2

ARTICLE MULTIPLE CHOICE / QUESTIONS 1-6 / STUDENT PAGES 8-9

Paragraph numbers refer to the numbers beside the article in the student paper. The byline is not counted as a paragraph.

01 B To provide the necessary items to isolated students

Paragraph 1. Anna states that her aim was to take educational materials to young people without local school buildings or teachers. Isolation is background context; the stated purpose is providing resources, not simply contact with mainland students or companionship.

02 A The curriculum used on the mainland is not very helpful for islanders.

Paragraph 2. The mainland curriculum omits maritime and fishing skills needed in island life. The floating school addresses that gap through locally relevant teaching. The text does not say students formally propose subjects or that formal training is compulsory.

03 C It informs students about developments in ecological areas.

Paragraph 3. The school supplies current information, practical techniques and knowledge about protecting ecosystems. Anna says fishing communities already understand sustainability, so the purpose is not to replace a generally negative attitude towards marine life.

04 B They offer students an insight into potential careers.

Paragraph 4. Professionals describe their jobs and answer questions, giving students a view of possible careers. Some students later choose those professions. The paragraph does not make networking or direct encouragement into island-related careers the experts' main function.

05 A Delighted by former students' feedback about it

Paragraph 5. Anna finds it especially satisfying to hear former students say they want to contribute to their island community. Growth has been gradual, not unexpectedly rapid, and she plans to retain the existing format rather than pursue specified new projects.

06 A It has been recognized by others as being significant.

Paragraph 6. Other people are using the model as a starting point, which Anna sees as a strong endorsement. She does not announce a new collaboration, and the reference to thinking something impossible concerns others in difficult circumstances.

MULTIPLE CHOICE / QUESTIONS 1-6 / STUDENT PAGE 10

Audio: insight-upper-int-end-of-year-test-a-listening-1.mp3 (approximately 3 minutes 43 seconds). Allow 45 seconds to read this section; play the complete track twice, with 10 seconds between plays. Repeat this procedure separately for each listening section.

The answers reproduce the stored online listening key. These explanations distinguish the answer choices; they are not a transcript or an independent transcription of the audio. Students answer during playback; the online setup has no additional timed answer window.

01 C An informal setting

The stored key identifies an informal setting as the woman's priority. An interesting atmosphere and trying something new are different criteria; select the preference attributed specifically to her.

02 A It takes a lot of time to be good at it.

The keyed point of agreement is that becoming good at surfing takes considerable time. The alternatives focus on apparent ease or eventual enjoyment, rather than that shared judgement about learning.

03 A To prompt his friend to contact him

The call is keyed as an attempt to get the friend to respond. Explaining an absence of ticket purchases or reminding the friend about an unavailable meeting would be different communicative purposes.

04 C How realistic the characters were

The key selects the believability of the characters. Distinguish the woman's reason for liking the book from comments about its plot or writing style.

05 A She will look out of place.

The selected concern is not fitting in with the occasion or group. That differs from physical discomfort or a specific worry about appearing insufficiently sophisticated.

06 C Disappointment about not sitting where he hoped to

The man's keyed feeling is disappointment about his seat or intended location. The other options attribute surprise about passenger numbers or admiration for musicians to him instead.

MULTIPLE CHOICE / QUESTIONS 1-6 / STUDENT PAGE 11

Audio: insight-upper-int-end-of-year-test-a-listening-2.mp3 (approximately 4 minutes 3 seconds). Allow 45 seconds to read this section; play the complete track twice, with 10 seconds between plays. Repeat this procedure separately for each listening section.

The answers reproduce the stored online listening key. These explanations distinguish the answer choices; they are not a transcript or an independent transcription of the audio. Students answer during playback; the online setup has no additional timed answer window.

01 B It is a process that people who go to live abroad go through.

The key defines culture shock as a process experienced when living abroad. Complete loss of contact with home and differences between individual reactions do not replace the selected definition.

02 B She embraced every new experience that came her way.

The keyed description is enthusiastic participation in new experiences during the honeymoon phase. This differs from primarily relying on others or observing the culture from a distance.

03 B Surprised by the sudden variations in her mood

The answer highlights Priya's surprise at changes in her mood. Homesickness and frustration about adapting are distinct possible feelings, rather than the reaction selected by the stored key.

04 A She made some conscious changes to her behaviour.

The key identifies deliberate changes to her own behaviour during adjustment. Requesting language assistance or becoming tired of managing expectations would describe different responses.

05 A That it was possible to combine elements of two cultures

The selected learning is that elements of two cultures can be combined. It does not claim that others stopped seeing her as foreign or that she understood every aspect of Scottish culture.

06 C Do not try to avoid culture shock.

The keyed advice is to accept rather than avoid culture shock. Taking temporary breaks or discussing feelings with friends are different suggestions from the one selected here.
